THE NICARAGUA CANAL

What the Election on the Presidency of William Miller Means. The election of ex-Senator William Miller to the presidency of the Nicaragua Canal Company, at a meeting of the directors in New York, on the 16th inst., is an additional indication, if any such were needed, of the intention of the promoters to push this great enterprise with energy and business sagacity to its conclusion. The former president of the company, Mr. Alfred C. Cheney, of the Garfield National Bank, is still as actively connected with the enterprise as ever, and is now vice-president; but the time has come when the canal requires a working manager who can devote all his time thereto, while President Warner Miller intends to do, pushing the work, as he says, "with all the vigor that man and money can bring to bear on it." The board of directors, says the Scientific American, includes many men of high standing in the financial and business world, and though there has not been much flourish of trumpets about what they are doing, as was so conspicuously the case at Panama, all accounts agree that the preliminary work has been most thoroughly performed and a substantial concrete mast made toward the building of the canal.

Church Murderer Convicted. Hancock, tried for murder at Provo, Utah, in one of the old cases generally called church murders, was Saturday night found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing thirty years ago, of Mrs. Jones and her son.

Bodies Recovered. J. George Jones and M. C. Mayes and wife, from Arkansas, lost their lives in the fire at Seattle last Friday. Their bodies were only discovered Sunday and accidentally.

Shocking Tragedy.

By Associated Press.]
SAN BERNARDINO, March 24. — A shooting affray occurred in the Windsor Hotel at Redlands about 6:30 this morning. Several shots were heard, and on investigation P. C. McConkey, manager of the hotel, was found in a dying condition in the hallway leading from the office to the lower parlor. He had a frightful wound in his breast, a bullet having passed through his body, and, as a rifle was found near him, it was supposed that he had leaned upon the weapon and discharged it. He lived but a very few minutes.

Just after his death the body of D. C. Gresham, foreman of the Citrograph, was found in the parlor. He had a wound under one arm, a bullet having passed through his body. He had a pistol grasped in his hand, and the walls of the parlor were splashed with his blood.

The Coroner's Jury commenced an investigation at once. The general theory is that McConkey shot Gresham and then committed suicide. Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause.

The Coroner's inquest over the remains of Gresham and McConkey was commenced with closed doors. Several witnesses stopping at the hotel testified that McConkey was up at a much earlier hour than usual and seemed much depressed.

Samuel DeHart, McConkey's father-in-law, and Miss Clara McConkey, the latter's sister, testified that McConkey was troubled about money matters connected with his business; that he and Gresham were good friends, and that no jealousy of Gresham existed on McConkey's part.

P. Shepard testified that Gresham and he were particular friends. They dined together last night, and Gresham went to the Citrograph office and got a pistol. Witness recognized the one offered in the evidence as the one Gresham took from the office.

M. C. Bishop testified that Gresham told him that he had been intimate with Mrs. McConkey and he expected McConkey would kill him, as the latter had a Winchester rifle ready for him.

Several letters from Mrs. McConkey were produced, when the inquest was adjourned until 1 o'clock.

Mrs. McConkey, who was in bed, stated that McConkey had been depressed for several days, and on many other occasions seemed to be partially insane. He had told her that the world was against him; that she did not care for him any longer, and that he was going to die. Mrs. McConkey was very hysterical during her testimony, and the Coroner, under the advice of the attending physician, desisted from further questioning.

M. C. Bishop was recalled and stated that he had quite a talk with Gresham about his intimacy with Mrs. McConkey, but Gresham would not admit that it was the wife of the hotel manager. The letters that Gresham had were mailed in San Bernardino, but Gresham pointed out the Windsor Hotel and said they came from there, and that he had been intimate with ladies in church affairs.

James A. Doyle testified to dining yesterday afternoon with Gresham and Shepard, and that they went to the Citrograph office, where Gresham got a pistol, saying in response to an inquiry that he was only going to shoot some cats. After supper witness left him talking to Mrs. McConkey and Miss Tackler.

H. L. Brown testified that he saw the shooting as he was coming from breakfast and saw three shots fired, two at Gresham by McConkey and one shot at himself. "I was so scared," said the witness, "that I did not remain to see the result of the shots."

Boulanger's Proposition.

PARIS, March 25.—Boulanger has written a letter in which he renews his offer to return to France, providing the Government will permit him to be tried by the Court of Appeals or by a court-martial.

A Distressing Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—A wagon in which were a teamster named John Brown and three small children of a neighbor, while attempting to cross the railroad track at University Avenue, West Berkeley, this morning, was struck by a passenger train from Stockton, due in this city at 9:45. Brown and two of the children were killed and the other child was seriously injured. The wagon was completely wrecked, and the two horses attached to it were so badly hurt that they had to be killed.

LATER.—Later information is to the effect that Brown was the only one killed. The children were Brown's son Charles, and August and Lucien Passett. The Brown boy was not badly hurt, but the others had their legs broken and were otherwise seriously injured.

The Venusian Guns.

By Associated Press.]
WASHINGTON, March 25.—The Secretary of the Navy has approved the report of the board of officers appointed to witness the tests of the pneumatic dynamite guns of the cruiser Vesuvius. The report shows three shots fired from each gun. The charge was about 204 pounds of gun cotton, which, together with the shell, fuses and packing, made a total weight of over 500 pounds. The guns were elevated 18°, and each flight was steady to distances of from 2,116 to 2,333 yards. The contract was that a shell should be thrown over a mile, and it was more than fulfilled. The engines of the cruiser are still to be tested.

Congressional Matters.

By Associated Press.]
WASHINGTON, March 25.—Immediately after the approval of the journal Chandler of Massachusetts called up the World's Fair bill.

The following amendments to the Fair bill were adopted: That the Commissioners shall appoint a board of lady managers, and that board may appoint one or more members; all committees are authorized to award prizes for exhibits produced in whole or in part by female labor; that one of the members of the board to be charged with the selection of the Government exhibit be chosen by the Fish Commissioners.

Chandler opened the debate in advocacy of the bill, strongly commending the board for the comprehension and commendable energy displayed by Chicago in the matter. Chicago had done more than any other city in raising $5,000,000 and agreeing to double it. Chandler then moved an amendment that the Fair buildings be dedicated October 12, 1892, and the Exposition to be opened not later than May 1, 1893, and closed not later than October 30, 1893. A postponement, he said, was not asked by Chicago, but was for the benefit of the exhibitors. The amendment was adopted.

The World's Fair bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 202; nays, 49.

The House Committee on Elections to-day disposed of two contested election cases; namely, Posey vs. Parret, from the first Indiana district, and Bowen vs. Buchanan, ninth Virginia. In both the committee will recommend that the sitting member be allowed to retain his seat. In seven election cases up to the present time the committee has favored four Republicans and three Democrats.

The House Committee on Invalid Pensions authorized a favorable report on the bill introduced which provides for the disability pension and service pension of all soldiers who have reached the age of 62 years.

Having reopened the subject of duties on sugar, the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee find it a hard matter to adjust them satisfactorily. To-day the refineries are here in force. A number from New York, Boston and Philadelphia made a strenuous protest against the action of the committee in cutting so heavily into the existing rates, and maintained that a twenty-five per cent. cut on all refined sugar should stand. On the other hand, a dozen members from the West insisted that the duties must be still further reduced.

SENATE.

Among the bills introduced and referred was one by Morrill to establish an educational fund from the proceeds of public lands; one by Faulkner to give a pension of $2,000 a year to the widow of General Crook; also, a joint resolution by George to amend the constitution so as to empower Congress to make all laws necessary to suppress combinations in restraint of trade or production, and to prevent transactions that create monopoly or increase or depress prices of commodities.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill to enable Secretary Tracy to gather full and authentic information of the present condition and preservation of the fur seal interests of the Government in Alaska, compared with 1870; also full information as to the impending extinction of the sea otter industry, and kindred lines of inquiry. The bill provides for the employment of a special agent at $10 a day, and was read in full. There was also communications from the Treasury Department endorsing it and recommending its passage. After considerable discussion the bill was passed.

West offered a resolution, which was agreed to, calling on the President for copies of further correspondence regarding the award made to the Leabers Silver Mining Company, and a distribution of the same.

Dawes offered a resolution, which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Interior for information as to land patents issued to Indians under the severalty act.

Hear gave notice that he would not call up the Montana election case till Monday.

The anti-trust bill was then taken up and George addressed the Senate.

New Extradition Treaty.

By Cable and Associated Press.]
LONDON, March 25.—The new extradition treaty between Great Britain and the United States will be officially published to-night, and goes into effect on April 4th.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The convention supplementary to the tenth article of the treaty of 1842 between Great Britain and the United States, concluded at Washington July 12, 1889, and the ratifications exchanged at London on March 11, 1890, was proclaimed to-day. By the terms of the supplementary convention, the provisions of the tenth article of the original treaty were made applicable to the following additional crimes:

First—Manslaughter, when voluntary.
Second—Counterfeiting or altering money, uttering or bringing into circulation counterfeit or altered money.

Third—Embezzlement, larceny, receiving any money, valuables, security or other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained.

Fourth—Fraud by a bailee, banker, agent, factor, trustee, director or a member or officer of any company is made criminal by the laws of both countries.

Fifth—Perjury or subordination of perjury.

Sixth—Rape, abduction, child-stealing, kidnapping.

Seventh—Burglary, house-breaking or shop-breaking.

Eighth—Piracy by the laws of nations.

Ninth—Revolt or conspiracy to revolt by two or more persons on board a ship on the high seas, against authority of the master; wrongfully sinking or destroying a vessel at sea, or an attempt to do so; assaults on board ships on the high seas with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Tenth—Crimes and offenses against the laws of both countries for the suppression of slavery and the slave trade.

Extradition is also to take place for participation in any of the crimes mentioned in this Convention, or in the aforesaid tenth article, provided such participation be punishable by the laws of both countries.

The Convention further provided that fugitive criminals shall not be surrendered if the offense in respect of which his surrender is demanded be one of a political character, or if he proves that the requisition for his surrender has, in fact, been made with a view to try or punish him for an offense of a political character. No person surrendered under the Convention shall be liable or tried, or be punished for any political crime or offense, or for any act connected therewith committed previous to his extradition; nor shall he be liable or be tried for any crime or offense committed prior to his extradition other than the offense for which he was surrendered until he shall have had an opportunity of returning to the country from which he was surrendered.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

When Girls Are Engaged.

The Ladies' Home Journal for April contains the following sensible suggestions relative to the "engaged" period: "You have a hand around the third finger of your left hand in which is set a turquoise, and when it was put there you remembered that the Hindu said: 'He who bath a turquoise bath a friend.' Now, that's what you have in the man you love best, and whose wife you are going to become—a friend. He is your sweetheart, your lover it is true, but because to you his heart seems best worth having, his love the richest gift you can possess, you will not vulgarize, as many girls do, the tie that binds you. It is true you go with him alone to hear some wonderful music, or look at some fine pictures, but I hope it is not true that when you are at a party, or in your own home, you two pair off and make yourselves the objects for silly chatter and idiotic jesting.

"He can love you with his whole heart, but he must not make you an object of ridicule. He can think you the most unselfish girl in the world, but he must not show his own selfishness by expecting you to devote your evenings exclusively to him, ignoring those who are at home. Let him come in and be one of them—there's a dear five minutes when he can speak to you, when he can kiss you on the lips that he knows are only the gates to sweet, pure speech, and when he can whisper the lovely nothings that mean so much to you both. Then, too, don't let him feel that he must give up all his friends for you; don't accept valuable presents from him, and don't assume an air of proprietorship with him. Tell him nothing about your family affairs, for the secrets of the household do not even belong to the man you are going to marry. Guard yourself in word and in deed; hold his love in the best way possible; tie it firmly to you with the blue ribbon of hope, and never let it be eaten away by the little fox who destroys so many loving ties and who is called familiarity."

THE San Francisco Examiner editorially says: The suspension of Labouchere has had no effect in dampening his irrepressible spirit. He has scarcely found his way back to his seat before he has exploded a new bomb under the unsteady fabric of the British Constitution. The vote on his motion to abolish hereditary representation in Parliament must be a thunderclap to the beneficiaries of antiquated privileges. The motion was rejected by 201 votes to 139, a majority of only 62. The Government majority in a full House is over 80, so that practically the entire Liberal party is ranged against the House of Lords. There is scarcely a doubt that the next general election, which is almost certain to occur within a year, will bring in a Liberal House of Commons. What the hereditary legislators have to face, therefore, is the fact that within a year Great Britain is likely to be ruled by a party pledged to the abolition of the House of Lords.

WHAT an old objector Springer is in the House of Representatives! He opposes the admission of Wyoming because he fears it would be, if admitted, a Republican State. That is all there is to it. The reasons he urges are baby reasons. The question, says the Salt Lake Tribune, is, "How far does a Congressman's oath govern his actions? How does a Congressman reconcile his acts to his oath when he opposes something which he knows the people want and would be better off for having? The study of the human mind is a curious one. Springer has been a champion of the Mormons for a score of years. Is that a sign that he has been perverse and ill-balanced from the first, and is his opposition to the admission of Wyoming merely a fresh proof of mental curdiness?

A RECENT report by the officers in charge of two United States training ships shows that seven-tenths of all applicants are rejected on account of heart disease, superinduced by cigarette smoking.

THE AGENT'S DEFEAT.

He Strikes a Lady Who Knew All About Photography.

Scene: Suburban residence. A gentlemanly person awaits the coming of the lady of the house, who presently appears.

He—Madam, I have taken the liberty of calling upon you to explain our new system of club pictures and to show you a few specimens of our work.

She—My dear sir, I—

He—Quite so. You were about to observe that you were very busy this morning, and besides you did not care for any photographs at present. Your next-door neighbor said the same thing, but, nevertheless, when she had seen the beautiful pictures which I shall be pleased to show you she decided at once to take a ticket for one dozen of these exquisite works of art.

She (frigidly)—What my next-door neighbor does is nothing to me, sir, and I don't want—

He—Really, madam, it's no trouble, I assure you. I know you were about to observe that you did not want to trouble me to show you these charming specimens, but I am persuaded that you will be delighted with them. And then they are so reasonable in price, when you take into consideration the high grade of work, that it is positively like giving them away.

She (impatiently)—Sir, I have no time to—

He—No time to sit for pictures just now you were about to say, but I can assure you there is no time limit about this system. You merely give me fifty cents in exchange for the coupon, and call at the gallery whenever it suits your convenience, pay five dollars more, and have your sitting. You are then entitled to one dozen elegant imperials and one copy of this new and beautiful discovery of the art, called—

She—See here, you, sir, I want you to understand that if I had my way I would put every photograph in the country in jail. Pictures, indeed! Do you see the stains all over my carpet? That's where my husband, who is an amateur photographer, spilt some of his chemicals. Do you see the hole burnt in that piano cover? That's where he ruined it by trying to take a flash light picture and came near setting the house a-fire, to say nothing of frightening the baby into convulsions. There's scarcely a decent piece of crockery in the house that has escaped being utilized as a developing dish, or for some other such purpose.

He—But, my dear madam—

She—Don't dear me. I know your vile tricks, sir. If it hadn't been for your miserable art—art, indeed!—my house would not resemble a pig-pen. Look at my mantel-pieces, closets, tables and bath-room, and, in fact, look at the whole house! It is filled from top to bottom with some evidence of your vile trade. Five dollars a dozen! I would not give you five cents for all the trash you can make. I've had photography for breakfast, dinner and supper till I'm sick of it, and if you don't get out of this house this minute, I'll call the hired man to set the dog on you.

He—Really, madam, I'm sorry—

She—No, you're not. That's what I always say—that's what my husband says when he has ruined some fresh thing with his nasty compounds. That's what he said when he spilt muriatic acid over the front breadth of my new evening dress. Sorry! Now, I tell you what, if you don't get outside that door in something less than no time you will have cause to be sorry in earnest. And just you remember to tell at the next house you go to up the road that their next neighbor didn't decide at once to take a ticket.

Gentlemanly person beats a hasty retreat.—N. Y. Sun.

How to Find the Dates of New Moons in Any Year of This Century.

The Golden Number is the place of a given year in the lunar cycle, which is 19 years; that is, every 19 years the new moons come around on the same dates.

To find the Golden Number: Add 1 to the date, and divide the same by 19; the remainder is the Golden Number for that year. When there is no remainder the year is the last of the lunar cycle, and of course its Golden Number is 19.

Example: To find the Golden Number for 1890: Add 1, and we have 1891; divide by 19, and the remainder is 10. Hence 10 is the Golden Number for 1890.

To use the table: Find the Golden Number for the given year, then when ever it occurs in the table it gives the date of a new moon. The first column is the days of the month. Each of the other 18 columns is headed by the name of one of the months.

TABLE TO FIND THE NEW MOONS FROM 1801 TO 1900.

17			30	29	28	27	26	25	24	23	22	21
18				30	29	28	27	26	25	24	23	22
19					30	29	28	27	26	25	24	23

For instance, suppose you wish to find the date of the new moon in November, 1888. Using the rule above, we find the Golden Number for 1888 was 8. Look in the column headed "November," and the 8 is found opposite the 3d day of the month. Hence the November new moon in 1888 was on the 3d. By this table we can find the dates of all the new moons for any year.—Toledo Blade.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Malaria

Is believed to be caused by poisonous miasms arising from low, marshy land—occurring in the summer, and which, breathed into the lungs, enter and poison the blood. If a healthy condition of the blood is maintained by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, one is much less liable to malaria, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many severe cases of this distressing affection.

A Wonderful Medicine.

"For malaria I think Hood's Sarsaparilla has no equal. It has kept my children well right through the summer, and we live in one of the worst places for malaria in Maryland. I take Hood's Sarsaparilla for that all gone feeling, with great benefit." Mrs. B. F. Davis, Maryland, Cal.

Break-Bone Fever.

"My daughter Pearl was taken with dengue for break-bone fever 2 years ago, and my friends thought I would lose her. I had almost given up hope until she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. She took four bottles in four months, and gained 15 pounds. I thank Hood's Sarsaparilla for giving her back to me restored to health and strength." Julia A. King, Sherman, Texas.

JOTTINGS.

For a daily hot soup lunch and a quiet place of resort, go to George Becker's Granite saloon.

All patrons of the Riverside Hotel are carried, with their baggage, from and to the trains, free of charge.

For a first-class job of either repairing or cleaning of jewelry or watches, go to Richard Herz's Virginia street store.

The best hams—"Our Taste"—and bacon and the best lard, butter and the freshest of ranch eggs at E. C. Lead-better's.

If you want to see something fine in the line of citrus fruit, take a look at those navel oranges in C. J. Brooks' show window.

Besides his Boga and Sacramento beer J. J. Becker carries a complete stock of all the best brands of liquors and both imported and native wines.

For "Our Taste" all kinds of breakfast, meals and a full line of canned goods, go to J. N. Wallace's Commercial Row store.

The crowd of people daily seen at W. T. Craig's grocery store shows they are pleased with both the quality and price of his goods. All orders promptly delivered.

Those in want of the best firewood should have orders with J. F. Allen, who will deliver it in any part of the town. He also sells the best hard coal for $12 50 per ton.

The liberal patronage being enjoyed by the Arcade Hotel and restaurant warrants Mr. Lemery in keeping open night and day, and the result is no one is ever sent away hungry.

There is nothing in the line of the most popular monthly and quarterly periodicals that cannot be had at C. A. Thurston's news depot. He also carries the San Francisco and Sacramento papers.

Don't believe your merchant if he says the imported article is the best, he only does so out of business jealousy; compel him to give you a home product. Try Palace Bakery crackers.

CATARRH.

Catarrhal Discharge—May Fever A New Home Treatment.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, eustachian diseases and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N.B.—This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of three cents in stamps to any post office. A. H. Dixon & Son, 337 and 339 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarrhal troubles should carefully read the above.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are first down, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a nerve tonic, and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great nerve tonic and alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored and the liver and kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c, at Wm. Finner's Drug Store.

Mr. B. F. Masters, Cashier of Emmitt & Co.'s Bank at Waverly, Ohio, says: "I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best I have ever used. After using several other kinds, without benefit, I tried it and it quickly cured me, after years of suffering with an obstinate cough and throat trouble." 50 cent bottles for sale by Shoemaker & Co.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. I you have ever tried it you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it, should be afflicted with a cough, cold, or any throat, lung or chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottle free at Wm. Finner's drug store.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

This best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, oozes, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect relief, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Wm. Finner.

Fryer's Abolition Cough Balsam—a combination of the gum Aghine, Yerba Santa and Mullein, is guaranteed to cure coughs, colds and all lung diseases. (It contains no opium.) Price 75 cents. Sold by Wm. Finner. The original and genuine Abolition preparations bear the facsimile signature of D. F. FRYER.

To Stockmen and Ranchers—Westlake makes men's heavy French kip shoes full stock to order for $5.00. Try a pair. Repairing neatly and promptly done. 25

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOL.

An Efficient Corps of Teachers Doing Good Work.

One half day spent in the Reno Public School, the method, discipline and thoroughly systematic arrangement of grade and work, convinced us that the right man was in the right place, as Principal of the Public School. Every wheel seemed to turn on its axis and all around the common center with order and precision. An air of attractiveness and agreeable welcome pervaded the whole scene and made our stay a pleasant pastime.

We first visited Miss Angell's room and really owe an apology to the other teachers for remaining so long there. Miss Angell was conducting a class in practical and mental arithmetic. So well and skillfully did she manage the class, so earnest and proficient were the pupils, that our attention became so much absorbed that we were not conscious of being there five minutes when the bell rang for recess.

THE SCHOOL ROOMS.

Are well planned for ingress and egress, and the pupils so thoroughly trained that one would hardly know that any, and especially several hundred, were passing in and out, enjoying their morning exercises so necessary after an hour of school work.

Recess over, we visited for a few minutes the different rooms and grades from the high school to the primary. All the rooms were orderly, systematic and pupils attending to their work.

In Mrs. Doten's senior class we saw some excellent work in grammar; also, the class in arithmetic. Examples were readily solved in bank discount and square root. In the JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

We noticed some very appropriate questions on the blackboard, showing that the class were being examined in the legislative department of the constitution of the United States. We were particularly gratified to see this branch taught so thoroughly.

The public school is the bulwark of American liberty. In it should be taught the fundamental principles of our government; the underlying foundation of the liberties of the nation.

Passing hurriedly to the south primaries, we were just in time to enjoy the hilarity of the little ones obeying the welcome "tossin' that calls to lunch."

We observed unusually good work in drawing and writing on the blackboard.

If citizens, interested in the welfare of our youth, would visit often the public schools, it would encourage both teachers and pupils, and would be surprised at the earnest and honest work done.

OBSERVER.

McKISSICK'S OPERA HOUSE.

"A Hole in the Ground" To Be Presented on the 26th Inst.

Of this unsurpassed, mirth-provoking play the New York World says: "Hoyt's variety melange, called 'A Hole in the Ground,' was presented at the Bijou Theater Monday evening. Frank Lawton made a fine display of whistling, and Lillian Ramsden proved herself to be a good dancer. Charles H. Clarke was funny as the Stranger, and so was Katie Hart as the waitress at a lunch counter. The cast as a whole is as good as when the skit was here before."

Reserved seats are now on sale at Nasby's Bazaar.

Some Good Scores.

The Carson Tribune of the 24th inst. says: "Seventeen men were out shooting at the Carson Guard shooting range yesterday, and despite the shifting, treacherous wind, some excellent scores were made. Saffell led the first-class shooters with 45, Parkinson the second class with 43, and Dick Raycraft was in the front rank of the third class with the excellent score of 44. Six first-class men averaged 43, while the three second-class averaged 42. Captain Galusha is anxious to get up a thirty-man match with some team in Uncle Sam's domain. Who speaks first?"

Asserted His Rights.

There is trouble at Anacortes over an attempt to force a steamer to leave the wharf at which she was unloading to make room for a vessel which the wharfing favored. The Captain refused to move, and the wharfing tried to cut the lines, but was whipped by the Captain. A warrant was sworn out and served on the steamer the next day, but the Captain took the parties who served the warrant to Seattle. The Anacortes party is furious. The trouble originated in rivalry between Fairhaven and Anacortes.

Preparing for the Water Suit.

The Silver State of the 24th inst. says: General Clarke and a civil engineer have been up the river taking observations and making surveys, preparatory to the trial of the suit brought by George D. Bliss against Dunphy, Grayson and others, claiming water rights above his ranch on the Humboldt. Preparations are also being made by those interested in the suit brought by Marker Brothers and others to adjudicate priorities of water rights.

Odd Fellows' Celebration.

The Odd Fellows of Reno purpose celebrating on April 25th the seventy-third anniversary of the institution of Odd Fellowship in the United States. In the afternoon a regatta and uniform parade will take place, in which all the secret Orders of the town, the Reno Guard and the University Cadets will be invited to participate.

Good News for the Public—C. W. Borton's Auction to Boom Again.

C. W. Borton of the Opera House Dry Goods Store has returned again from San Francisco with a large stock of dry goods, clothing, boots, shoes, blankets, etc., which he will commence selling at auction on Monday, March 24th, and continue to sell until the amount of $10,000 worth is closed out. Sales each day will commence at 2 and 7 p. m. sharp. C. W. Borton, Auctioneer and Proprietor.

Small Manufacturing Industries.

Lawrence, Mass., is beginning to see the importance and value of small manufacturing industries, and the Board of Trade there has appointed a committee of five to select a site and determine the cost of erecting a large building to be let to small industries for manufacturing purposes.

Yosemite Commissioners.

The Governor of California has appointed the following Commissioners to manage the Yosemite Valley and the Mariposa Big Tree Grove: J. B. Steaton, T. P. Madden, John P. Irish and Frank M. Pixley of San Francisco and J. H. O'Brien of San Joaquin county.

Desperate Suicide.

An unknown man about 30 years of age, stood on the railroad track just east of San Pablo, Cal., Saturday night while the east-bound train was rapidly approaching, and placing a pistol to his head, shot himself. The engineer could not prevent the train from passing over the body.

How He Was Killed.

A remarkable coincidence in connection with the death of the President of an electric railway in Ohio, is that he was killed while violating a rule which he himself had made, forbidding passengers to get on or off the front platform while the cars were in motion.

Sick headache, wind on the stomach, biliousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pills, 25 cents a trial.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

A Steam-Heated Car Catches on Fire.

It has been thought that the heating of cars by steam from the locomotive would do away with the risks of fire in railroad trains. But the passengers on a Boston and Maine car running between Reading and Boston a few days ago were startled by the sight of smoke near the center of the car.

An examination showed that there was a fire beneath the floor, and it was found necessary to cut away a part of the floor in order to extinguish it. The valve by which steam was admitted or excluded was near the place where the fire was found.

It is probable, says the Scientific American, that a surplus of oil had been used about the valve, and the oil, aided by the warmth from the steam pipes, doubtless caused spontaneous combustion. The discovery of this fire will probably lead to the adoption of new precautions, especially regarding the use of oil about the steam pipes and valves.

PERSONAL.

George Russell went below last evening.

S. Enrich went to San Francisco this morning.

Dr. Harmony of Wadsworth was in town this morning.

Colonel M. N. Stone of Virginia City returned from San Francisco this morning.

The Misses Foster, who have been attending the Socials, and for some time accompanied by J. T. Henly, left this morning for their home at Linkville, Oregon.

WELL PRESERVED.

A Former Queen of Washington Society.

Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, says a Washington correspondent, has reached middle age, yet time has so gently touched her that it is easy to see in her the belle of ante-bellum war days in Washington. There are no visible gray threads in her rich brown hair, and her large hazel eyes are bright and bewitching as when she won the heart and hand of Rhode Island's young War Governor, and was married amid the pomp and circumstance of war.

She dresses modestly but elegantly, and is as much at ease with herself and those about her as in the old days when the National Capital was at her feet. Her home now is at Edgeworth, the homestead near Washington which was purchased by Justice Chase a short time before his death. It is simple, compared with the luxury which at times has surrounded her, but there is an air of contentment in her face which is worthier than the old smile of conquest which I have seen on her lips in other days.

NEW STORY OF LINCOLN.

How Stanton Was Allowed to Free His Mind.

A new story of Abraham Lincoln is told by the New York Herald. Secretary Stanton was once greatly vexed because an army officer had refused to understand an order, or at all events, had not obeyed. "I believe I'll sit down," said Stanton, "and give that man a piece of my mind." "Do so," said Lincoln, "write him now while you have it on your mind. Make it sharp; cut him all up." Stanton did not need a second invitation. It was a bone-cruncher that he read to the President. "That's right," said Abraham; "that's a good one." "Whom can I get to send it by?" mused the Secretary. "Send it," replied Lincoln; send it! Why don't you send it all? Tear it up. You have freed your mind on the subject, and that is all that's necessary. Tear it up. You never want to send such letters; I never do."

Healthy Exercise.

Housework is healthy, and many physicians recommend it to women who need exercise. Walking is not enough; it exercises only the lower limbs, while dusting and sweeping bring an entire different set of muscles into play. It will be found, too, that many girls will take more interest in their homes if encouraged to assist in the care of them.

Liquor Smuggler Thumped.

David Coreoran, a guard at San Quentin, has been forced to resign his position. It is claimed that the smuggler of liquor into the prison has been traced to him. Before he left the locality he had a fistful of money with Captain Reddy, in which he came out second best and with a frightfully bruised face.

Delayed Mail.

It is stated that about 7,000 pounds of mail is now lying at the break on the Southern Pacific in the Cow Creek Canon in Oregon with no means of transportation. The parties who had the contract for carrying the mail across the break have given it up, and all the taxpayers demand 2 cents a pound for carrying it.

Freight Reduced.

The Transcontinental Freight Association, in session at San Diego, has lowered the tariff on freight going East. The rate that has prevailed on ten cars heretofore will be allowed on seven cars, they to be from the same point to the same destination.

Don't Go Off Before You Are Ready.

Particularly on a long journey. Be really prepared. You cannot be, permit us to say, unless you are accompanied with the traveler's and tourist's vaude meum, Host-tetter's Stomach Bitters, most genial of appetizers, acclimatizers and promoters of digestion. Aggravated sickness, malaria, cramps and colics begotten of badly cooked or unwholesome food and blackish water, nervousness, indigestion, travel sickness, biliousness, and constipation, the Bitters is a sovereign preventive. It imparts a relish for food not otherwise to be had, and prevents it from disagreeing with you. Never was there such a capital thing for the unfortunate traveler who is in dread of the best cooked meal. Stomachic trouble caused by ill prepared viands aboard ship, or on a journey, is soon remedied by the Bitters, which is a quietus also to rheumatism, kidney troubles and insomnia.

A HAPPY COUPLE.

Who Saw None of the Discomforts of Our Day.

The Washington Star contains the following: When you come to think of it coolly and calmly after the lapse of all these years, Adam and Eve were pretty fortunate people. Adam never had to run dead heels with the house dog. He didn't even have to sit in the parlor and talk politics with Eve's father. When they quarreled and Eve climbed a tree, Adam didn't have to write long letters and spend hours of anxiety and postage stamps to make it up. All he had to do was to sit down under the tree and wait till Eve's temper recovered its normal sweetness. He never patronized confectory stores; he merely went to the nearest fruit row, picked a nice, ripe pineapple, and presented it with his compliments. There was a beautiful dream of wedded life. When Eve wanted a new dress Adam went to the nearest fig tree and got it. And Eve never felt called upon to mend a burst button-hole or help Adam hunt his collar-button, or take all the blame because he stumbled over the rocking-chair. It was a monopoly on undisturbed comfort, and if Eve had only had enough feminine sagacity to lift up her skirts and scream and run when she saw the snake we wouldn't be having all this trouble now.

A MAGIC WORD.

Ready Wit of the Late Congressman S. S. Cox.

The following little anecdote shows the ready wit of the late S. S. Cox. It was during his visit at Huron, S. D., that a young lady, accompanied by her best young man, was introduced to the honored guest. Extending her hand to him, she said, very gushingly: "Oh, Mr. Cox, I am so glad to know you and hear you speak. Just say one word, one single little word, that I can say I heard your voice."

The regular statesman squeezed tenderly the soft white hand that was laid in his, glanced at the faces of the young couple standing before him, and in a sweet, low voice said: "Matrimony."

"Is unnecessary to state that the day was soon named."

The Fire Out.

At Butte, Montana, the St. Lawrence mine shaft was opened Saturday and miners lowered to the five-hundred foot level in safety. No gas nor smoke was noticed. A large quantity of water has been pumped into the Anaconda mine and now it must be pumped out again.

A FEW CURES.

Made by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Mrs. Belden, an aged and feeble lady at 519 Market St., San Francisco, after going down steadily for months was completely restored and is now well and healthy.

J. H. Brown, book-keeper, Petaluma, cured entirely of his indigestion and constipation. Miss Clara Melvin, 126 Kearney street, S. F., cured of an aggravated case of indigestion and constipation.

J. R. Fournet, Chief Wharfman, foot of Clay street, S. F., cured of pains in the back, liver trouble and sick headaches. Mrs. J. Lamphere, 1243 Market street, S. F., had been under physicians' care for two years for liver complaint. With the third bottle she received her old accustomed health.

Fred A. Blecker, Baldwin Hotel, S. F., suffered for years with dyspepsia. Felt better the first week and is now cured.

Gustav Solomon of 223 Valencia street, S. F., cured of sick headaches and liver trouble. Edward Nestell, 79 Everett street, S. F., cured of pains in the back and chronic biliousness. And over 1000 others.

Elder B. F. Kittenger of Gattysburg, Pennsylvania, says he has been suffering with a cold and cough, also his wife, that they took to using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and received great benefit from it. Yet he says, "It was so pleasant to take." For sale by Shoemaker & Co.

MOTHER'S ROCKING CHAIR.

Of all the treasures I possess I have not one so fair Or one of half the worth to me As mother's rocking chair.

They say it's old and worthless now, Its rockers useless, worn, With leaning back and broken arms, And cushion sadly torn.

I love it for its priceless wealth Of memories sweet and dear; I love it for the loved and lost Who oft have rested here.

My dearest earthly friend has sat And rested in that chair; And when I look upon it now I seem to see him there.

I ever found him true and kind, Unselfish to the end; No other one has filled his place— My father was that friend.

And still another—more than friend— In days long, long gone by, Has rocked to sleep, upon her breast, With low, sweet lullaby.

Her little helpless, darling babe, Whom fondly she caressed; And on her cheek, her lip and brow Her kisses softly pressed.

And yet another, dearly loved, Has pressed that cushioned head, And, seated here, a blushing maid, I heard the story told.

The same old story, old as love, And just as sweet to hear, With fond caresses on lip and cheek From lips we hold most dear.

You heard my childhood's griefs and joys And saw my girlhood pride; You saw me learn to fondly love, You held me next, a bride.

And when you saw my mother love, My wife's griefs and care, You lulled my child as you had me, And heard my low-breathed prayers.

Unslightly thou to other eyes, To mine thou art most dear, A lifetime's sorrows to thee cling, Its joys are centered here.

Then wonder not because I love My mother's rocking chair; For all I ever loved on earth Hath left a memory there.

A QUESTION OF POLICY.

The Ways of an Insurance Agent Are Indeed Mysterious.

How Old Bolus Was Induced to Take Out a Policy Through the Machinations of Two Sharp-Witted Insurance Friends.

Milton J. Tonteen was a young insurance agent who was naturally very anxious to get business for his company. That in fact was what he was there for. He looked on all humanity, individually and collectively, as risks. Every man who walked the streets was to him a risk, good or bad. He buttoned-hole people on the street and whispered a few words to them about the necessity of insuring while it was yet time, and he followed people into their offices until many a man was worried into taking a policy that he felt he did not need, but he had to do it in self-defense if he expected to get any more work done during the rest of his natural life.

There was one man that young Tonteen wanted very much to get, and that was old Bolus, the millionaire. He felt that if he could rake in the old man, who was not so very old after all, it would be a good name with which to get others, because every thing that Bolus touched seemed to turn to gold, and people were very much in the habit of trying to get into the schemes in which the old man Bolus was interested. Tonteen had tried and tried again to get Mr. Bolus interested in life insurance, but his efforts had all been without avail. He was talking one time about this millionaire to a friend of his, a young physician, when the latter said:

"Look here, Tonteen, one good turn deserves another. Now, if you make me one of the examiners for your company I'll agree to help you rake in old man Bolus."

"It's a bargain," said Tonteen, and forthwith the young physician was appointed.

"Now," said that gentleman to Tonteen, "you go to Bolus and offer him ten thousand dollars insurance for nothing."

"Oh, but I can't do that," said Tonteen, "the company would never sanction such a proceeding."

"That's all right," replied the doctor, "you go and offer him that, and see how quick he will jump at it."

"Why, if you offered old Bolus a cent he would take it quicker than wink."

"You offer him the insurance and tell him there will be nothing to pay and send him to me to be examined."

So the next time that Tonteen went into the office of Mr. Bolus he said to him, notwithstanding that gentleman's frown and wave of the hand: "Look here, Mr. Bolus, business is business. I will not conceal from you the fact that if I got you on our list it would be a very good thing for our company. Our company recognizes that, and so they authorize me to offer you $10,000 insurance on your life for nothing. We will take the risk for the advantage it will give us to carry you. Of course you understand that this thing has to be kept quiet; we wouldn't care to have anybody else know it."

"That's all right," said Bolus, genially. "Now, young man, you are talking sense. I will accept that proposition, and some time perhaps I will take a little more in your company."

"I am sure," said Tonteen, "when you see the advantages of carrying life insurance that you will have more of it. Now, if you can call around on our examiner, Dr. Bones, corner First and Blank streets, he will examine you."

"See here," said Bolus, "I haven't time to go fooling round a doctor's office; can't you send him up here?"

"All right," said the insurance agent, "I'll see about it. What time would suit you best?"

"Oh, I don't know; any time in the forenoon," and so it was arranged.

Young Dr. Bones was kept waiting some time for Mr. Bolus, but at last he was asked to step into the private office, and the door closed behind him. He stood the old man up and made him breathe long breaths, and then thumped him on the shoulders and listened to his heart, and placed his ear back of him and front of him in different positions, and finally stood up and looked at the millionaire severely.

"Ever been rejected by any insurance company?" said the doctor.

"Certainly not, sir," answered Bolus, hotly; "never applied for a cent of insurance in my life."

"Well, I am sorry to say, Mr. Bolus, that I can not recommend our company to take you as a risk. There is something the matter with your heart. You may drop dead at any moment, sir."

Old Bolus turned pale and then sank into his office chair again.

"Oh, it may be nothing serious," said the doctor, "only our company is very careful about such matters, and of course I have a great responsibility. If you should drop off three months after I have made this examination then I would be in trouble. I wish you good morning, sir."

Old Bolus sat for some time looking into space and paid no attention to the knocks at his door. Finally he called up his boy and told him to telephone to Mr. Tonteen. When that gentleman came he found the millionaire in a state of mind.

"See here," he said, "what do you mean by offering me $10,000 insurance and then having your physician reject me? What do you expect to make by that sort of conduct, sir?"

"Really," said Tonteen, "has he rejected you? Why, I wouldn't have thought it. You look to me as healthy a man as walks the streets."

"And so I am, sir; and so I am."

"Well, see here," said Tonteen, confidentially, "this is rather serious, you know. Perhaps Bones is mistaken."

"Of course he's mistaken," cried the millionaire, smiting his fist on the desk.

"Well, the trouble will be that if you apply for insurance anywhere else you will have to tell them that you have been rejected by our company."

"But, sir, I haven't been rejected. I never made application to your company and I refuse to have it considered so."

"I am sorry to say," said Tonteen, "that your application has already gone in; you remember you signed it? Now, I'll tell you what we had better do. Mr. Bolus, you come around with me to old Squills. He's not half so particular as our other man. Perhaps he will pass you all right."

"Very well, Mr. Tonteen, I will do so," said the millionaire, with a sigh of relief.

"But, of course, you understand it can not be on the first arrangement? You see, I took you for being as sound a man, as I said, as any that walks the streets. It seems that you are not so, and if you get into an insurance company at all now, let me tell you you are mighty lucky and making a very good speculation of it. I only do this now because I have offered you the free insurance, and because if your application were rejected by our company you would not be accepted by any other company. I may get into trouble on account of this it is, but we had better go and see what Dr. Squills says."

Dr. Squills did not make nearly so thorough an examination as Dr. Bones, and he had no hesitation in passing the subject all right.

Mr. Tonteen is now a very successful insurance agent, but he never cares to tell how he landed old man Bolus into the insurance net—Luke Sharp, in Detroit Free Press.

WOMAN'S PAINTED FACE.

It Was Seen in Nineveh, and It Costs a Pile in America To-day.

The art of beautifying the complexion by artificial means is very old. The women of gray antiquity knew how to give their cheeks the rosy hue which nature had denied them. In Nineveh the practice of enlivening was quite common. The skin was made smooth and clean with pumice stone and then covered with a layer of white chemical preparations. A toilet case found in the ruins of Thebes contained a whole arsenal of little bottles full of perfumes and complexion medicines. The women of Athens painted themselves with white lead and vermilion. The poet of Ovid described various paints which were used by the Roman matrons, and complained that the women tried to imitate with cosmetics the rosy complexion which health alone could give. He also spoke of the deceitful pallor lent to their cheeks by white lead, and of curious methods they had of beautifying their eyes. Again he mentions that a pale face was a necessity for every woman who aspired to be "good form." Pliny speaks of a concoction of flour of peas and barley, eggs, hartshorn, etc., which fashionable women in Rome wore on their faces all night and part of the day for the purpose of clearing their skins.

The custom of painting the face was brought to Gaul and Germany by the Romans. A few centuries later one hundred different salves for the complexion was sold in the German market. In modern times France has been the great manufacturer and consumer of cosmetics. In England, too, the use of them has been general. In 1779 the English Parliament found it expedient to consider a bill to the effect that "all women, without distinction as to age or rank, maidens as well as widows, who should deceive the male subjects of his Majesty and mislead them into marriage by means of paint, false hair, Spanish wool, corsets or padded hips, should be punished under the provisions of the law against sorcery, and the marriage should be declared null."

A German statistician, who has accurate data concerning the use of cosmetics throughout the civilized world, estimates that the money which American women pay for cosmetics would pay for the painting of 37,000 houses at an expense of $75 per house.

Women and Their Watches.

The idea that women's watches are a bracelet of leather is something new, as stated by a New York paper the other day, struck me as being funny. We have had them for two years. I confess that I think it is a good idea. Any idea which will make a woman wear a watch where she will pay it some attention is a good one. The majority of women do not know how to treat a watch. They put it in their dresses so the chains will show, and they seem to think that will regulate their timepieces. They forget half the time to wind their watches and then wonder why they don't keep the correct time. A fortune awaits the milliner who will make a place in a woman's dress where a watch can be carried so that when it is taken out the idea will occur to the wearer to give it proper attention.

HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

—After exercises of any kind never ride in an open carriage or near the window of a car for a moment. It is dangerous to health or even life.

—The best parts of fish lie near the head. If there is any roe put a part on each plate. Be careful in sewing a fish not to break it. A fish knife or a knife with a broad blade is the best.—Detroit Tribune.

—Tea Bread.—Make a sponge of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, half a pint of yeast, one pint of flour, with as much milk as necessary for a thin batter. Bake when well risen.

—Suet Johnny-Cake.—Add one cup suet to an ordinary corn cake batter, only the sour milk will not need to be as rich as at other times, when suet is not used. This is to be eaten hot.—Ohio Farmer.

—A pretty and useful article is a teapot holder. Take a small square of drab satin sheeting and line with chambray skin, placing a layer of perforated wadding between the outside and the lining. Cut the edge of the chambray in tiny points.—The Home.

—A Coffee Desert.—Make a coffee-cupful of clear, strong coffee, place it in a saucepan with an ounce of soaked gelatine and add enough more water to make a quart in all; sweeten to taste, and when it reaches the boiling point pour into a buttered mold and set away to cool. It is very nice when served with whipped cream.—Orange Judd Farmer.

—Serving Bananas.—A favorite way of serving bananas in New Orleans is to cut them lengthwise in two pieces, dust them with powdered sugar, a little lemon juice and bits of butter, and to bake them in the oven for twenty-five minutes. They should be baked with the butter once or twice while baking, and served hot in the dish in which they are cooked.

—A Simple Pudding.—Roll three crackers finely; one pint of hot milk, the yolks of two eggs, a saltspoonful salt, the same amount of nutmeg and one teaspoonful of butter. Bake half an hour in an earthen dish standing in water. When done beat the whites of the eggs with two teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar. Brown slowly in the oven, then dot with bits of jelly and serve.

—The extent to which warm water bags have come into use is amazing. They are now an almost essential adjunct of every lady's traveling outfit and are often given as presents. They are of flannel-covered rubber, the most popular being in plaid patterns. When filled with boiling water they retain heat the entire night. A hot water bag under the neck will settle a neuralgia headache more quickly than any remedy known.—Selected.

FIGHTING THE APACHES.

How an Arizona Rancher Won General Crook's Friendship.

James Payne, of Arizona, can tell more about the bloodthirsty Apache Indians in a minute than any other man. He has been at Washington telling the committee on Indian affairs that the people of Arizona don't want the Indians removed to the Fort Sill Reservation in Indian Territory. Mr. Payne says if the Indians once get back to the west side of the great river they won't rest until they get a few scalps. The Apaches have raided Mr. Payne's ranch three times and stolen any amount of stock.

"You can't depend upon them," said the rancher. "Just as soon as they get back General Crook will lead them to the San Carlos Agency and then the trouble will begin. At their feasts they drink a grain whisky which makes them crazy. Then they start out on plundering expeditions. If they are removed it will be against the wishes of the people of Arizona and New Mexico."

With Mr. Payne is J. B. Shepard: He is the champion Indian story-teller of the West. Speaking of General Crook, he said: "I'll never forget when I fought beside General Crook in an Apache battle. We had been in the redskins some days, and one noon we sighted a band at Crazy Jim's Gulch. The General started us on a run, and the way we sailed after the Apaches was a caution. They stopped and set fire to the prairie grass, hoping to head us off, but we fooled them. When they saw that they couldn't get away they rounded up their ponies in a circle and stood in the center. We skirmished around a bit and then called in. General Crook has a heart like an ox, and he said: 'Boys, just slay a few dozen of the warriors. Don't kill all, just enough to let them know that we are the people.' 'Twas a sweltering day and there wasn't a spot on the sun. After throwing off our coats and rolling up our trousers we opened fire. In a few seconds the Apaches began to drop. Taking advantage of an open place I led a crowd right into the midst of the Indians. Suddenly my pistol was hurled from my hand and I had to work with an old sword. Being pretty handy with the big knife I more than held my own. I had just laid out my tenth man when I felt a touch on the elbow. The air was so filled with Indian hair you could not see the sun and I asked:

"Who is there?"

"General Crook," was the reply.

"What is it, sir?"

"I wish to restrain you," spoke the General. "There is nothing I admire so much as a good fighter—you know that, Jim, but when it comes to turning this little spot on the prairie into a slaughter-house I kick."

Primitive Water Power.

On many of the rivers of Germany it was formerly the custom to anchor a flat boat which had large paddle wheels on each side, fastened to a revolving shaft. By the force of the passing current these wheels were turned after the manner of an undershot water wheel, and the power thus obtained was used to grind corn or for other purposes. In the rapid current of these rivers the power thus utilized was very considerable, and the device appears to have been of quite a practical value, though now so superseded by vastly superior arrangements, it appears to us of very slight use.—Christian at Work.

"THE KING'S TOUCH." In England, two centuries ago, popular superstition credited the "Royal Touch" with curing scrofula. These superstitious practices have now become obsolete, and in their place we have a scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which eliminates the impurities from the blood by the natural channels, thereby cleansing the system from all taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is truly a royal remedy, world-famed and the only liver, lung and blood remedy guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. As a regulator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all bilious attacks, indigestion and dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea and kindred ailments. As an alterative, or blood-purifier, it manifests its marvelous properties in the cure of the worst Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, as well as Lung-scorfula, commonly known as Pulmonary Consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial.
